ABOUT THE CONFERENCE AND THE THEME

The field of economic analysis of law or the microeconomic analysis of efficiency in particular has arguably emerged as one of the influential theories of jurisprudence since the 1960's. The discipline has been steadily making inroads into India as scholars and policy-makers note how comparative law lends itself to comparative economic analysis of law. Law and Economics have come to be more closely related in the globalized world. While the language and reasoning of economic analysis started appearing in the Indian courts only recently, the discipline can provide relevant and deeper insights to a number of contemporary Indian legal issues. Economics renders a practical way of assessing the effectiveness of laws and policy which further assists the state in achieving the objective of economic development and overall growth. Hence, it is essential to acknowledge the relation law and economics share in the new world order.

The theme of the conference is centered around understanding the interface between law and economics while exploring the role of economic analysis in varied fields like Consumer law, Intellectual Property, Corporate Law, Competition law, Property law, Contract, etc. among others. This conference would be 8th in the series of International Conference on Law and Economics.
